

IL SUONAR PARLANTE a group of great musicians, led by the viola da gamba soloist Vittorio Ghielmi. The expression Il Suonar Parlante, invented by Niccolò Paganini, is referred to a special technique by which musical instruments can really imitate the human voice.

Since 2002, the musicians of IL SUONAR PARLANTE are presenting again this rediscovered sound image, which allows a completely new understanding of our classical and early musical patrimony, but also the creation of deeply innovative musical projects. Vittorio Ghielmi, with his work as international viola da gamba soloist, conductor, composer, writer and teacher, has given a new image to the sound of his instrument and of the European classical repertoire.
